The Eagle Farm Hangar 7 in 1943 with the rebuilt Mitsubishi Hamp ready for a test flight

The EAGLE FARM AVIATION SOCIETY Inc. has been created to establish a community owned aviation museum nucleus of the Eagle Farm Community Heritage Centre in this heritage-listed hangar on the site of the WWII airport. An area that encompasses the hangar, the Engine Test Stands and the Women Convicts' Prison has been set aside by the Brisbane City Council as a Heritage Precinct.

The hangar was where the Allied Technical Air Intelligence Unit collected parts and documentation of three different Japanese fighter types (Oscar, Zero/Hamp and Tony), rebuilt them and flew them against allied fighters to gauge their strengths and weaknesses. Post-war it served the Eagle Farm aviation community in a number of ways, particularly as TAA's cargo depot and warehouse.

The Society is looking for members and memories of the hangar and Eagle Farm in general, see Page 5.

President's Annual Report August 2009

I am pleased to present the 2008-09 Annual Report of The Royal Historical Society of Queensland, Queensland's peak history body. It has been a rewarding and busy year for your Councillors and the Society as we celebrate Queensland's Sesquicentenary.

At the last Annual General Meeting, I was re-elected as President together with the election or re-election of Vice-Presidents Manfred Cross, Dr Hilary Fisher and Richard Morgan; Honorary Secretary Dr Ruth Kerr; Honorary Treasurer Barrie Rollason; and as members of Council Andrew Darbyshire, Janet Hogan, Dr Robert Hogg, Dr Rebecca Ling, Carolyn Nolan, Dr Lesley Williams. Dr John Pearn was reappointed to a position on Council. As there was still a vacancy on Council following the Annual General Meeting, the Council after calling for expressions of interest from members appointed Dr John Mills to the vacant position. Judy Rechner our long standing Honorary Librarian was reappointed again to that position. Jean Stewart continued on Council as Immediate Past President. A special thanks to all Council members for their contribution and commitment over the year.

Dr Lesley Williams and Andrew Darbyshire who have been members of Council for eight years and two years respectively are not seeking re-election at this year's Annual General Meeting. The Society appreciates the valuable work and dedication of both members. See page 5 for the new Council members

In the latter part of last year our new Governor, Her Excellency Ms Penelope Wensley AO, agreed to become the Society's Patron in place of our recently retired Governor. On 2 April 2009 the Governor visited the Commissariat Store and Museum and inspected both the exhibitions and library collection.

Farewell to Allan Bell

After six years as Manager and Curator of our Museum and two years prior to that as a volunteer and guide, Allan Bell will retire on 21 August 2009. A special farewell function is being held tomorrow, Friday 21 August, to thank Allan for his years of making a major and valuable contribution to the Society. Following this meeting, the Society will tomorrow evening award Allan an Honorary MacGregor Medal in recognition of his valuable work. The MacGregor Medal under the RHSQ's rules could only be awarded to members of the Society of 10 years standing. Because he was a paid employee of the Society, Allan to avoid potential conflicts of interest was not an RHSQ member while Manager. Therefore, the Council has proposed a rule change to enable this award to be made to Allan. Allan's work in a variety of roles has been a feature of the Society. He will be particularly missed by the volunteers and guides, who together with members and Allan's friends are all invited to the farewell function tomorrow evening, but registration is required and a small charge is applicable for catering purposes. I look forward to seeing a large number tomorrow evening for what is Allan's night. Allan's presence will be missed greatly and I take this opportunity to wish him and his wife Elizabeth a happy and healthy retirement in Townsville.

Pending the appointment of a manager, Katy Law will take Allan's place as acting Manager. Katy has worked as an intern and volunteer at the Commissariat Store and Museum during her university studies.

Clem Lack Oration

Immediately following the business of this year's Annual General Meeting, Emeritus Professor Kay Saunders will deliver the Clem Lack Oration, the Society's major address for the year. Kay's address is entitled 'The restless energies of freedom: Reassessing Queensland's history'. Last year I had the privilege of delivering the address entitled 'Queensland's Visionary Premier: Sir Thomas McIlwraith'.

Kerr Medal

In conjunction with the Professional Historians Association (Queensland) the RHSQ awards each year Queensland's most prestigious history award the John Douglas Kerr Medal of Distinction in historical writing and research. This year there were joint recipients, Dr Jennifer Harrison and Dr John Steele: our hearty congratulations to both.

Website

Our website manager, Judy Rechner, continued to update our website and provide additional material. Your Council is placing on the site a comprehensive list of material and activities that relate to the Society. Last month we added the Bulletin, which can be easily accessed through our home page, while still being forwarded to members individually. The website is an opportunity to communicate with members, friends and the public for little cost. Judy's regular work on the website has greatly modernised the face of the Society.

Publications

Dr Margaret Kowald continued as Honorary Editor for the year of our leading Queensland History Journal with the support of Assistant Editors Val Donovan, Marianne Eastgate, Dr Robert Hogg and Dr Ruth Kerr. In November 2008, the Society renamed its Journal with a new cover design by our member Dr Michael Tracey. Where appropriate, conference papers from 2006 to and including 2009 are in the process of being published. During the year, your Council agreed to the digitisation of the Journal and inclusion on The University of Queensland's Portal website as a contribution to Q150 celebrations. The Q150 Digitisation and Online Communication Agreement covered Journals up until 1994. Our Editorial and Publications Committees have continued to keep up the high standard that we have come to appreciate.

Library and Research Services

Research queries during the year from 1 June 2008 to 31 May 2009 totalled 206 and were comprised of 103 in person, 74 by email, 9 by letter, 4 from the website and 16 by phone. This compares to 174 for the previous corresponding period. Judy Rechner continued as the Honorary Librarian and Jean Stewart as the Honorary Research Officer. Other research volunteers were Dr Kay Cohen, Val Donovan, Beth Johnson, Rod McLeod and Lyndsay Smith.

Bulletin

As part of the drive to reduce costs the size of the Bulletin has been reduced. As I have mentioned, the Bulletin continues to be forwarded to all members either through Australia Post or by email. Because of the postage cost and handling involved the Society has been encouraging members to receive their Bulletin by email. With more than 100 members now receiving the Bulletin online each month and the number growing, we trust that more members might avail themselves of receiving our monthly newsletter by this latter means. Our Bulletin editor Dr Graeme Nicholson continues to make a major contribution to the Society in a number of ways. Thanks to all those who regularly contribute to the Bulletin in particular Ruth Kerr who every month submits the 'Country News' section.

Exhibitions

The Society's decision to give a greater profile to exhibitions has meant that they have continued to play a growing role in the Society's activities over the year. After last year's Clem Lack Oration the exhibition entitled Women's Exhibition was launched. Being Queensland's Sesquicentenary year, it is only natural that we would have exhibitions focused on this event. Early in the year our exhibition curator Jan Hess and her assistant curator Robyn Stephenson replaced the exhibition on the second floor. On 19 March, one of Queensland's leading historians Emeritus Professor Kay Saunders opened the new exhibition 'Sesquicentenary of Queensland 1859-2009'. The exhibition features copies of the Letters Patent and Order in Council from the original Queensland Government Gazette 1859. A special thanks to Megan Hess who designs the RHSQ's exhibition posters.

The RHSQ welcomed the participation of the Brisbane History Group in a joint presentation of the next exhibition opened on 1 June which was under the direction of Dr Rod Fisher. 'Signs of Separation – An Exhibition of Hidden Treasures' was opened by our Patron the Governor, Her Excellency Ms Penelope Wensley AO, in the presence of 200 people. The Brisbane History Group met the cost of the evening. A special feature of the exhibition was reproduction of documents by arrangement with the Royal Archivist at Windsor Castle by Ms Samantha Cohen, Director of Communications and Press Secretary to the Queen. The letters to Queen Victoria from Sir Edward Bulwer-Lytton contain proposals for the naming of Queensland by the Queen in 1859 (Queensland or Saxonland). The RHSQ is grateful to Dr Kay Cohen and her daughter Samantha for arranging these documents to be part of this special exhibition. The Society has a photographic record of the evening thanks to our member Ms Jennette Lavis who recorded the evening with her camera and has generously denoted a CD of the occasion for our records.

Commissariat Store and Museum

Volunteers contributed hours to welcoming visitors to the Museum. New signage at the front and rear of the building, over the front desk and on each floor, and on some windows on the building have all assisted to increase number of visitors. Andrew Darbyshire made a valuable contribution to this project. Volunteer Estelle Cooper as publicity officer has played a major role with her promotion of the Store and Museum. Estelle has spent many hours gaining additional publicity for the Museum with photos and articles appearing in local papers as well as additional promotional work to ensure that the Museum gains a higher profile. A special thanks to all our volunteers and guides for the many hours of dedicated and committed work that they generously give each year to the Society.

On 11 February, at the 'Queensland State Archives 2009 Events and Exhibitions Program' the RHSQ received recognition for both our contribution to the exhibition and as a repository of Queensland's history.

Program

The Program Committee had a busy year organising the lectures held on the second Wednesday at lunch time and the third Thursday evening of each month together with our other activities such as the conference on Saturday 8 August. This month's most successful conference 'Queensland 1859' which was held in conjunction with the Brisbane History Group had an attendance of 100 people. This compares to about 70 at the RHSQ conference held on 9 August last year. It was the third of our conferences held on aspects of separation. Because of financial issues, your Society has this year been forced to place a $5 charge per person at each lecture to cover the cost of sandwiches etc.

Treasurer's Report

The Treasurer's Report indicates that it has been a difficult year for the Society with the need to reduce costs. This compares to a profit for the previous financial year of $12320. We were fortunate that Barrie Rollason, a former State Auditor-General, allowed his name to be put forward at last year's Annual General Meeting as Treasurer. Barrie is ably assisted by our volunteer bookkeeper Evi Kornjadi.

Apart from anything else the drop in interest revenue has severely affected your Society. Your Council has adopted a stringent budget for the year which we trust will enable a small surplus to be achieved for the year.

At the beginning of 2009, the RHSQ received a grant from the Gambling Community Benefit Fund of $8878 for the purchase of new desktop computers and hard drive for which we are extremely pleased as it allowed for the upgrading of the Society's capabilities in the service provided to the members and public.

Dr Rebecca Ling continues to focus on the making of grant applications to a range of bodies for the Society. Among the funds sought is a grant for conservation work on the panoramas. Also, we are continuing to make applications for grants to conserve the colonial copies of our Parliamentary Debates, Gazettes and Votes and Proceedings. Over the next few weeks the success or otherwise will be known of several of these applications.

Membership

Membership of the Society stands at 583. Unfortunately because of the need for additional revenue, the yearly membership fees were increased from $50 to $60 per person with other fees amended accordingly.

History Week

On Friday 29 May History Week commenced with the holding of a conference 'Queensland Constitution at 150: Origins and Evolution' organised by the TC Beirne School of Law, The University of Queensland and the Supreme Court of Queensland Library and concluded with the Society's Queensland Day Dinner on 6 June. The Queensland Day dinner was again sponsored as it was last year by the Queensland State Archives. Our thanks to Ms Janet Prowse, State Archivist and the Honourable Robert Swarten, Minister for Public Works, for their support. The exhibition opening on 1 June was part of History Week.

Other issues

History in schools is an issue that we have continued to follow up with both levels of government and hopefully will have a successful outcome next year.

Your Society as trustee of the Dig Tree Reserve has successfully spent the grant from the Queensland Government to upgrade the signage and maintenance work at the site. Our appreciation to Manfred Cross and all those involved particularly the management of Nappa Meri Station and Santos.

The work of your Society's representatives Glenda Sheaffe on the National Trust and Stephen Sheaffe on Newstead House Trust has been appreciated.

During the year the RHSQ provided an exhibition at Government House Open Day. The RHSQ also had a stall at the City Council Heritage Expo at City Hall.

Last September, the date of Council meetings was changed to the second Thursday of each month rather than later in the month. This allowed for material to be more easily readied for the Bulletin and for better management of the Society.

Over the last 12 months the Society has lifted its profile through a variety of measures. This includes television, print media, radio and general promotion of a range of Society activities by a number of people including Allan Bell. I especially appreciate every one's valuable efforts in this regard.

I again appeal to members and friends to consider the Society when planning philanthropy, gifts, donations and bequests.

As I indicated at last year's Annual General Meeting, although I have served only two years as President I will not be seeking re-election this year. I want to place on record my thanks to the members and Council for their support during my Presidency. As Immediate Past President I will continue to play an active role on the Council and in the Society's operations. I have already indicated to Council that I will be focused over the next year with others on the Society's revenue raising efforts which will include approaches to the state government. It has also come to my attention that the constitution needs to be modernised on which I will undertake work with Council. I wish the Society the very best for the future.

In conclusion, I want to encourage you the members to play a more active role in your Society, which holds in trust much of Queensland's rich history. The Society is your Society and its success depends on you the members and your contribution.

I wish the incoming President and Council every success.

Queensland History News

(Collected by Ruth Kerr from personal Queensland contacts, Affiliated Societies and Newspapers)

Atherton - Nine gravestones at the Pioneer Cemetery at Atherton have been repaired using funds raised in a theatrical fundraiser. The gravestones had been damaged during cyclone Larry in March 2006. Librarian, Gwen Price, led a group of 113 people through the cemetery one evening when people dressed in historical costume told life stories of the deceased. Atherton local History group, Atherton performing Arts, Atherton SES and Tolga and District Lions Club performed. $709 was raised in the event and Cr Fred Williams Garage World Tablelands contributed further funds. (Tablelands Advertiser 4 March 2009 p.30)

Charters Towers - A World War II Report prepared by the Cultural Heritage Branch of the Department of Environment and Resource Management was tabled in Parliament in April 2009. It contains a summary of the construction of Charters Towers airfield, which was constructed in 14 days, and the first gravel runway was ready for bombers in 17 days. During 1942 new airfields were constructed for defence purposes at Charters Towers, nearby Breddan, and on Gulf Country stations of Carpentaria Downs, Augustus Downs and Wrotham Park. The two runways at Charters Towers were later sealed using mine tailings. (Northern Miner 1 May 2009 p.7 and www.epa.qld.gov.au)

Childers - The passing of Brian Philpott, aged 80 years, of Childers broke a link in the long history of the Philpott Cordial Works and sugar growing in the region. He was the great grandson of James Philpott, son of the Bishop of Exeter. James settled in the Gayndah area around the 1870s. A detailed biographical study of the family was published in the Isis Town and Country newspaper of 9 July 2009. The cordial business was sold to Salters Cordials of Bundaberg in 1968. Brian Philpott continued to work at the cordial factory for several years before moving to Pettigrew's Hardware and then to be janitor at the high school. (Isis Town and Country 9 July 2009 p.6 including photo)

Harvey Range Camping Reserve, 36km south west of Townsville, has been placed on the Queensland Heritage Register. It is within the archaeological category. The 472-hectare camping reserve was gazetted in 1872 and includes part of the old Harvey Range Road and a historical burial ground associated with the Range hotel. Francis Earl, a pastoralist died aged 24 years of fever on 12 March 1866. (North Queensland Register 9 April 2009 p.14) A brief history of the hotel including a list of licensees and a sketch of the building is published in Society member, Dr Dorothy Gibson-Wilde's book, A Pattern of Pubs: Hotels of Townsville 1864-1914 (James Cook University, Townsville, 1988) on pages 216-217.

Rossville - The Cooktown Walking Group recently walked along the route of the tin mining water race from Parrot Creek to the mine. The water race is on the Queensland Heritage Register. They noted the remains of the tin miner's camp - mango trees, vanilla orchids, bamboo, coffee trees, limes and cordylines. The group then visited the mine tunnel and followed a track out to the Bloomfield Road. (Cooktown Local News 22 July 2009 p.19)

Watsonville - The lives of two women were celebrated at the Pioneer Women's Day gathering under the Anzac Tree in the centre of the town on the June long weekend. Guests, Dolly Bell of Mareeba and Bridget Macdonald of Townsville spoke about their grandmothers, Hannah Elizabeth Hales of Cumberland near Georgetown in the 1870s, and Bridget Hines of Herberton who is buried at Watsonville. John Hales opened a hotel on the Irvinebank

- Stannary Hills Road at Hales Siding (on the tramway). Michael Hines was a baker in Herberton. (North Queensland Register 30 July 2009 p.34 including photo)

Obituary

Hessie Lindsell

Hessie Lindsell died in April 2009. Hessie joined the Society on 15 December 1989. She was also a stalwart of the Eumundi and Buderim Historical Societies. She wrote a short history of the Anglican Church in Eumundi on its 80th anniversary. More recently Hessie wrote up her research on the early Buderim area land selection by the Dixon and other families and this was published by the then Maroochy Shire Council.

August Research Report

This has been a comparatively quiet month for enquiries although some of them have been very challenging and required a lot of time and attention from our staff. They included requests for information on William Shelley, pioneer missionary in the South Seas; Thomas Childs and William Deagon; Lang's petition of 1860 from the volumes of Votes and Proceedings of the Queensland Parliament; a house in Palm Street, Lutwyche; Glass House Mountains, William Pettigrew and William Grigor; North Ipswich Railway Workshops; photos of Narcisse Pelletier; Lot 901 Old North Road, Warner; and the Nashville New Cemetery.

Obituary

Lorraine Cazalar OAM

Lorraine Cazalar, for many years vice-president and president of the Queensland Women's Historical Association, died on 26 July 2009. A former deputy matron of the Royal Women's Hospital, after her retirement Lorraine devoted her time and considerable managerial skill to her passion for history, writing several major studies, but most importantly managing the heritage-listed house Miegunyah, the headquarters of the Queensland Women's Historical Association. She was generous in her support of historical research through lecturing and the organisation of the extensive archive on women's history held by the association.

Forthcoming Events

'Crossing Boundaries and Borders: From Byrnestown'

In 1998, RHSQ Member Dr Bill Metcalf wrote The Gayndah Communes, a book about three utopian communes that were established near Gayndah, Queensland, in 1893. One of these communes, Byrnestown, consisted of about forty families, mostly of dirt-poor, Irish-Catholic descent. Brimming with utopian optimism, courage and a small amount of financial support from the Queensland Government they ventured to a place so unlike Ireland.

Dr Stephen Cronin, of the Queensland Conservatorium, Griffith University, is a direct descendant of one of those would-be utopian communitarian families. Inspired by Bill Metcalf's book and his own family memories of this incredible social experiment, the story now comes to the stage.

As part of the sesquicentenary celebrations of the state of Queensland, soprano Adele Nisbet and composer Stephen Cronin have created a new work celebrating the lives of these Irish pioneers. 'Crossing Boundaries and Borders: From Byrnestown' is based on contemporary newspaper reports, letters from the settlers themselves, reports from the state archives and poems by Irish nationalist Anna MacManus.

'Crossing Boundaries and Borders: From Byrnestown' is being staged on 11 September 2009, from 6:30 pm - 7:30 pm in the Ian Hanger Recital Hall Queensland Conservatorium Griffith University.
